

Why do so many wealthy men prefer Picayunes?

made mellow in the New Orleans way by natural aging

Those men could afford to pay a far higher price for cigarettes. But they don't. They stand by Picayunes.

Why? Simply because a better cigarette of purer, more satisfying tobacco cannot be made at any price.

The tobacco in Picayunes is peculiarly good. It is so naturally sweet and mellow that it needs no artificial help to improve it. We simply age it naturally to retain all its original, true flavor.

Once you have tried Picayunes, you'll always insist on Picayunes.

EXPANDING THE CHEST.

Proper Attitude to Assume During Breathing Exercises.

It has been the popular belief that when exercising certain arm movements during inspiration, such as holding the arms up, expand the chest and enable it to take in more air. According to Dr. James Frederick Rogers in an article in the Medical Journal, this is not the proper thing to do. He tested fifty persons of both sexes, ranging from sixteen to forty years of age, measuring carefully the quantity of air inspired when elevating the arms, as usually taught, and when standing still with the arms hanging loose. He found that in no single case did the arm movements increase the quantity of air inspired, but in many they actually decreased it. He also found that standing naturally is more conducive to deep breathing than lying flat or hanging by the hands.

"The raising of the arms," he writes, "does apparently increase the measurements of the upper part of the chest, but the increase is due to the change in the position of the muscles in this region and to their contraction of stretching, which causes them to stand out from the thorax. For the muscles which lift the arms forward or side-ward or upward have nothing to do with the lifting of the ribs, and consequently no special effect upon the depth of inspiration."

"With very deep inspiration there is a drawing backward of the head and a straightening of the thoracic spine. In other words, the assuming of a very erect posture and, if any exercises are to be carried out as aids to deep intake of air, it seems that the drawing backward of the chin and the assumption of the most erect standing or sitting posture would be most useful as an aid or accompaniment of deep breathing."

HE GUESSED RIGHT.

Now See if You Can Tell Which Fair One He Selected.

A certain Turk, according to the story, was once married to a veiled lady in white in the presence of the sultan. As soon as the ceremony was concluded the bride mysteriously disappeared.

The groom was led into an adjoining room, where stood twelve ladies all dressed in white, but without veils. "Choose from the twelve," exclaimed the sovereign. "Her that is your bride." As the man had never seen her face the command bewildered him.

"If you make a mistake," added his majesty, "your life shall pay the forfeit."

The poor man walked up and down the row of beauties, but saw nothing whatever to aid his choice.

"You have only a minute left," yelled the sultan in anger. "Choose at once!"

Ten of the ladies, the man noticed, gave him nothing else than a stony stare. One of the remaining two frowned, the other smiled. "The frowning one," he thought, "is my bride, for she expresses her displeasure and impatience at my ignorance."

"No," he said to himself, "it must be the smiling one, for she desires to invite me to her."

After debating the subject in his mind until his time was up he boldly made a selection from the two. He was successful. He had regained his bride. Which was she—the one who frowned or the one who smiled?

Machine Guns.

Machine guns are really rifles with a mechanical feed, which supplies them rapidly with cartridges. In all modern patterns they are automatic in action. The gas produced by the explosion or shock of the result opens the breech, ejects the spent cartridge, loads the rifle, closes the breech and fires the charge. These complicated operations are carried out with extraordinary speed. To give an example: The Maxim can fire at least 450 rounds a minute, or more than seven shots per second, and if in exceptionally good order and cleverly operated can discharge 600 rounds a minute.—London Tit-Bits.
